Occupational safety for the geotechnical industry

RPA SAFETY SERVICES Ltd
www.rpasafetyservices.co.uk

With clients ranging from analytical laboratories to geothermal drilling contractors, we pride ourselves on providing services tailored to your needs and because we offer a dedicated service in an industry we understand, you don't have to spend time explaining your needs. Working in partnership with the Drilling Academy, our joint aim is to raise the standards of occupational safety within the geotechnical industry.

Training

In partnership with Equipe Training we deliver industry specific training courses such as avoidance of services, manual handling and many others. Our IOSH accredited Safe Supervision of Geotechnical Sites, for which we are the license holders, is increasingly popular.

Management systems development and audit

We have helped a number of companies develop their management systems to meet the requirements of United Kingdom regulations. At our clients' requests we have reviewed their arrangements for avoidance of services, incident investigation, monitoring and review to name but a few. These reviews generally take the form of an audit, which should be considered a vital tool by every company in the process of risk management. Many of our clients are unaware of these areas of risk within their organisation, until the results of our audits are presented and discussed.

Occupational safety services

From advice on machinery safety guarding to completion of noise surveys etc. we specialise in reducing your risk. As we are chartered safety advisers, you can be assured our services have been carried out in a competent manner and you can rely on the results.

Did you know?

If your staff wear respirators for their work they should be fit tested BY LAW..!!
This is typical of the advice and support we give our customers. By identifying such gaps in their safety systems and carrying out the tests, we have protected their staff from harm and the company from prosecution.

Competent person support

By law, everyone needs a competent person who must understand their work.

We act as the competent persons for drilling contractors, analytical laboratories and geotechnical consultancies. With our experience in the geotechnical industry and the chartered status of our advisers, we can help you too.

Everyone needs a competent person.....
Let us be yours....!

RPA Safety Services Ltd.
www.rpasafetyservices.co.uk
tel: 01933 625658